

The lines are from his Callicline
Act. 3.

T. Warton.

Great honors are great burdens: but on whom
They are cast with envy, he doth beare two loads.
His cares must still be double to his joyes
In any dignity; where if he erre
He findes no pardon: & for doing well
A most small prayse, & that wrung out by force.

Ben: Jonson.

writt for me by my friende M<sup>r</sup> B. Jonson wh<sup>n</sup> I asked him for his hand-writing

John Marston 1612

This Specimen appears to be genuine

